Form 990 p 2: Organization Mission-1

Since 1993, Beyond Borders (BB) has worked to help Haitians build the movements to end child slavery; guarantee universal access to education; end violence against women and girls (VAWG); and promote economic justice and sustainable livelihoods. BB's approach promotes dialogue, participation, and respectful exchange in creating space for communities to develop solutions to the challenges they face. BB supports networks of individuals, organizations, and communities addressing the educational needs and human rights issues of groups traditionally marginalized and without access to basic services. Its three complementary programs reach some of Haiti's most marginalized people in more than 55 urban and rural communities. Through training, awareness raising, and advocacy, BB helps communities, institutions, families, and individuals harness their power to create lasting change.

BB currently implements three complementary programs in Haiti, all of which share the common theme of igniting community-led processes toward liberation and change. The three programs are Child Protection, Model Community, and Rethinking Power.

Form 990 p 2: Line 4a Description-2

Child Protection Program

The urban-focused Child Protection Program (CPP) contributes to Beyond Borders' movement to end child slavery. Formed after the 2010 earthquake, it works to build a broad social movement in Haiti that demands the respect of children's rights with a special focus on stopping the practice of child domestic slavery, called restavèk - a system of child trafficking and forced labor in which children, typically from poor rural families, are sent to live in domestic servitude in urban neighborhoods. The CPP engages neighborhoods where the concentration of children living in restavèk is highest. It includes interrelated prevention and response activities that build awareness of child rights within the general population, change harmful attitudes toward children and youth, catalyze creation of local protection structures, and share skills for best practice among civil society organizations, child protection actors, and the Haitian government.

The Child Protection Program's specific objectives are to:

1. Increase the number and capacity of newly-engaged individuals and community structures to protect the rights of children and youth;
2. Reinforce the capacity of adult survivors, activists, Community Based Organizations and Child Protection Brigades already engaged in child protection work;
3. Increase civil society collaboration and participation in multi-stakeholder mechanisms for improved coordination, knowledge-sharing, and advocacy; and,
4. Increase awareness among the general population of the restavèk system, child rights, channels for advocacy, and available resources.

Evaluation data collected with Child Rights dialogue groups in Port-au-Prince at the end of the FY2015 training cycle shows the most significant reported changes among participants to be (in order of most reported):

1. Increased awareness of equality of all children / decreased discrimination;
2. Decrease or elimination of physical violence as a form of discipline;
3. Improved communication with children;
4. Increase in capacity and tendency to defend children's rights; and,
5. Increased capacity and likelihood to intervene to protect children.

Model Community Initiative

The Model Community Initiative (MCI) currently contributes to our support for the movement to end child slavery, the movement to guarantee universal access to education, and the movement to promote sustainable livelihoods. It seeks to develop and share a highly effective model of integrated programming that enables rural Haitian communities to protect, educate and feed their children in order to stop the flow of children into slavery, or restavèk. Restavèk is one of the most painful indicators of accumulated rural distress. It illustrates the profound erosion of economic, social, physical and human capital left as a legacy of chronic stresses and cumulative shocks.

The MCI combines three components, which are to:

- " Increase community mobilization around child rights and protection,
- " Increase access for the most vulnerable children to primary education, and
- " Improve the capacities of the most vulnerable households to generate incomes.

Beyond Borders' worked with 12 communities during 2015. Across five communities on the island of Lagonav, fifty children were retrieved from restavèk by their parents.

The approach for this program is one of ongoing, on-site accompaniment. No activities are stand-alone: all interventions are part of continuous accompaniment and mentoring within the community.

Rethinking Power Program

Rethinking Power contributes to our support for the movement to end violence against women and girls. The goal of this program is to facilitate, guide, and teach Haitian communities to promote the rights of women and girls to live without violence and with access to balanced power with men and boys. Rethinking Power works to enhance the capacity of the local women's movement, implement structural-level primary prevention programming that addresses the root causes of violence against women and girls (VAWG) and the links between VAWG and HIV, and develop and promote a sustainable, Haitian community-owned response to VAWG.

" Engaging Communities: Training and supporting local residents to use tools for engaging community dialogue on VAWG that leads to shifts in knowledge, attitudes, skills and behaviors, and creates space for the emergence of local initiatives for action;

" Creation and Adaptation of Learning Materials: Adapting world-renowned, proven effective SASA! community mobilization method developed by Raising Voices in Uganda to the Haitian culture, language and context; and, developing new Toolkit to Prevent Violence against Girls, including school curriculum and community process to engage girls and community in building girls' power. Also, creation of other materials to address specific cultural issues and nuances;

" Technical Support to other organizations: Building capacity and providing tools to other organizations throughout Haiti who wish to effectively prevent violence against women and girls through training, mentoring, on-site and distance forms of technical support, as well as availability of guides like the SASA! Activist Kit in Creole

" Strengthening Community Based Response to VAWG: Building capacity of local women's organizations specializing in supporting survivors of gender-based violence.

Other

Beyond Borders sometimes extends its reach by serving as a fiscal agent for individuals and organizations that do work to advance our mission.

Carla and Ron Bluntschli

In FY 2015, Beyond Borders continued to serve as fiscal agent for the work of Carla and Ron Bluntschli who 'provide Haitians and visitors to Haiti with a deeper sense of how we are connected by our history and to our history so that we can find healing together.' During FY 2015, the Bluntschli's hosted and provided cultural orientation to dozens of visitors to Haiti. In addition, they continued in their ongoing work to educate Haitians and non-Haitians about their collective history through training sessions, dialogue facilitation, and theater performances.
